“IF IT'S WORTH
DOING,
IT'S WORTH
DOING RIGHT.”

A former registered nurse, Andy McPhee practiced and taught nursing for more than 20 years and worked in the publishing field for more than 30 years, starting as a writer and editor at Weekly Reader's mid-level science magazine and finishing as a healthcare textbook publisher for F. A. Davis in Philadelphia. He has written four nonfiction books for young adults, written or edited more than 750 newspaper and magazine articles, and managed the publication from beginning to end of more than 60 healthcare textbooks and reference books. He is a Consultant and Fellow of the National Writing Project and has earned two feature writing awards from the Association of Educational Publishers, now a division of the American Association of Publishers. He has also won acting awards from community theaters in two states.

Now retired Andy has been married nearly 30 years, and together he and his wife have four children and five grandchildren. They live in Saint Petersburg, Florida, with their two dogs. He loves golf, books, and fine food, not necessarily in that order.
